BOLTON MARRIED

Charges Against Him Withdrawn, but He Is Put Under Bond.

A. T. Bolton, who was brought back a prisoner from Fort Sumner, N. Y., Saturday night by Bicycle Policeman Gordon Smith, was married at her home last night to the young woman who had brought charges against him. When he appeared in Police Court in the morning the case was continued. Now it will not be pressed. But he was made to appear before Judge Witt, in the Hustings Court, who placed him under $500 bond to make his appearance in that court this morning.

Bolton, who has been enlisted in the United States Army less than two months, must return to Fort Sumner to serve his full enlistment for three years. When the military authorities were requested by the civil authorities to surrender him into their jurisdiction they agreed with the one condition that he be returned whenever he was liberated.

Jack Burruss Improving. Jack Burruss, who was seriously injured while riding with the Deep Run Hunt Club Saturday afternoon, is slightly improved. It was said at the Memorial Hospital last night, and there is some chance for his recovery. He has regained the use of his faculties, and the dangerous convulsions which affected him have ceased.

St. Andrew's Brotherhood. The annual meeting of the Richmond Assembly of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew was held last night in Grace Church lecture room. Officers and local council were elected as follows: Charles Newell, president; Ben Brock, enroute, vice-president; Phil Brown, secretary. Executive committee in charge—W. A. James, R. E. Duvall, H.

DISASTROUS FIRE BARELY AVERTED

Efficient Work of Department Saves Governor Street Buildings.

PRINTING PLANT DAMAGED
Loss from Water Will Probably Reach Several Thousand Dollars.

Quick work on the part of the Fire Department probably saved three buildings on Governor Street last night, though the Anderson Label Printing Company, 3 Governor Street, and the Nelson Manufacturing Company, on the third floor of the same building, were considerably damaged.

The fire started probably from a defective fuse on the third floor, and ranged upwards so fiercely through the wooden flooring that a policeman several blocks away saw the blaze and ran to Box 34 Fourteenth and Main Streets, and turned in the alarm. At the time, W. H. Nelson, of the Nelson Manufacturing Company, and Mrs. Nelson were giving a party to their daughter at the Jefferson Hotel. In view of the circumstances, the story of the fire was withheld from them as long as possible. Other members of both firms were soon notified, and were on the scene within half an hour.

Need for Quick Work. When the alarm was rung in from a box and a telephone alarm went in, four steam companies and two trucks were sent to the place, as the location is regarded as a dangerous one for a fire to break out. When the firemen arrived flames were spouting from roof and windows, and experienced fire fighters said, "We've got a real fire now." But the men, most of whom were acquainted with the lay of the building, went quickly to work under the leadership of Chiefs Joyner and Tarbo, and three streams directed through the windows in the alley just to the north and two lines of hose working on the inside soon had the blaze under control, and a fire that had threatened to do widespread damage was quenched before it had time to run its course.

Practically all the stock of the Nelson Manufacturing Company, valued at about $2,000, was destroyed, but the loss is amply covered by insurance. Damage to the printing company, most of which was done by the hand weight of water hurled into the building, was more extensive, and it will reach several thousand dollars. Exactly how much none of the officers of the firm could say last night. But everything is covered by insurance, and the loss was chiefly in the label department.

Condition Critical. Captain W. B. Whitlock, formerly of the First Police District, but now connected with police headquarters, who suffered a stroke of paralysis Sunday morning, was reported last night to be resting quietly. His condition is, however, still critical.

Try Suit in Tazewell Court. The case of the Commonwealth of Virginia, by Motion Picture, Auditor of Public Accounts, against D. H. Harman's administrator, a chancery case pending on the docket of the city Circuit Court, was yesterday removed by consent of counsel to the Circuit Court of Tazewell county.

Man Hurled Exit. A man employed by the Commonwealth Printing Company, next door on the alley, did not know that a fire was raging about him until firemen broke in and surprised him at work. Then he thought it was time to quit.

The Tower-Binford Electric Company, one door to the north, separated by an alley, was saved by its tin-covered windows, though sparks were falling all about it.

More damage to the burning building was also prevented by the fact that all the casing about the elevator was closed, though the flames had backed down through it to the first floor. All electric wires in the place were cut, and electricians stated that the fire could not have originated from defective wiring. A stove pipe running from a stove on the third floor was down when the firemen entered, and it is believed to have caused the fire.

Both companies will renew work today, as this is a busy season for both.

SCHOOLS CLOSE FOR THREE DAYS

Pupils to Have Gala Week While Teachers Attend Conference.

In view of the visit of President Taft to Richmond and the usual Thanksgiving holiday, and the fact that many teachers will wish to attend the sessions of the Educational Conference, the committee on teachers and schools of the City School Board last night authorized Superintendent J. C. Chandler to declare a general holiday in all public schools for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of this week.

From the close of to-day's school session, therefore, the young people will be released of all school work until next Monday morning, the longest Thanksgiving holiday ever given by the Richmond schools.

The High School Chorus will occupy seats on the platform at the City Auditorium to-morrow afternoon, when President Taft addresses the Educational Conference. Members of the committee on teachers and schools, here, the usual holiday excitement, the football games and the aeroplane exhibitions, it would be impossible to have any satisfactory school work go on, and so it was decided to give the teachers the opportunity of attending conference, and the scholars the holiday for which they have been petitioning.

Hustling Court Cases. Harrison Butler, colored, indicted on a charge of holding up Thomas James, was acquitted yesterday in the Hustings Court. Frank Branch and Charles Christian, colored, indicted jointly on a charge of house breaking, was called. Branch pleaded guilty, and he was committed to jail pending sentence. Christian entered a plea of not guilty, and was convicted and sentenced to three months in jail and to pay a fine of $100.

WORKMAN KILLED IN CAN FACTORY

George W. Smith Found Unconscious in Elevator Shaft by Companion.

Without a witness to see the manner of his death or to know how long he had lain before he was discovered, George W. Smith, of 2307 Fairmount Avenue, was killed in the Hasker & Marcuse factory of the American Can Company, 2401-2407 Venable Street, shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He was found lying on the floor by a machinist working on the floor above, who had noticed the elevator come up empty, running of its own accord.

The machinist ran downstairs to the first floor, where he found Smith lying unconscious, clear of the elevator shaft. There was no way in which to tell how he came to his death, whether he had been thrown from the elevator as it started up or whether he had merely fallen from the vertigo, to which he was sometimes subject, to which he could not have been serious enough to have death.

Dr. B. A. Hord, of 2300 East Broad Street, was summoned. He found that Smith's skull had been fractured at the base, and he had taken a blow about the head.

Without regaining consciousness, he died. The recently appointed Board of Proxies—R. B. O'Neil, John R. Purcell, James Mann, E. D. Cole, W. E. Carson and E. V. Barley. Members of the board have recently returned from a tour of inspection of the line and spoke in the highest terms of the managed manner in which it has been managed.

Mr. White Re-Elected. The stockholders unanimously re-elected William H. White president and the following board of directors: George W. Stevens, N. S. Meldrum, W. W. Finley and Alexander Hamilton. The board of directors J. Taylor Elysen was announced as director on the part of the State of Virginia. John P. Branch presided over the meeting.

Among the improvements noted by President White in his annual report was that the entire track between this city and Quantico had been laid with 100-pound rail and ballasted with washed gravel, making the road absolutely dustless. The company has also ordered of the Richmond branch of the American Locomotive Company four new engines of the Pacific type, which, it is said, will be the largest now entering the terminal at Washington. It is engaged in the reconstruction of the James River line and in changing the grade crossing at the Cary Street Road to an overhead one, thus eliminating danger to vehicles. Another has been built over the grade crossing at the Acca yards.

Opate by Telephone. During the year the company has installed the telephone, and is now operating its trains almost entirely by that system, which has proved satisfactory.

Immediately after this meeting the stockholders of the Washington Southern Railway Company held their annual meeting. The company reported that it was engaged in ballasting its entire line with washed gravel, which, when completed, will give a dustless road from Richmond to Washington.

William A. White was re-elected president, and the following directors chosen: W. W. Finley, N. S. Meldrum, Samuel Rea, George W. Stevens, H. Walters, Daniel Willard and William H. White.

The stockholders of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac and Richmond and Petersburg Railroad Connection Company re-elected its officers. This company owns the tracks from Elba Station and the Byrd Street Station in this city.

Institute New Lodge. A meeting of the Elks Lodge of the Villed Proheta, made up of those who have reached a high degree in Masonry will be inaugurated at the Richmond Hotel on the evening of December 7, when about 100 Masons from Washington will be here to take part in the ceremonies.

Dinner to the Poor. Adjutant and Mrs. Wiggins, of the Salvation Army, are preparing to give 100 poor children a Thanksgiving dinner on Thursday afternoon at 5 o'clock.

MICHELE GIVES UP GYPSY PRINCESS

Princess Lincka, the week-old daughter of Jesse Key Habersham, who ran away from Baltimore years ago to become the "queen" of the famous Gypsy King, Georges Michele, and who has recently been taken from gypsy surroundings and placed with relatives near Baltimore, is the granddaughter of a well-known Richmonder, J. C. Tillson, who for many years lived on Twenty-Seventh Street, between Chesapeake and Lehigh Streets, and who later moved to Baltimore, where his daughter married Mr. Habersham.

Mr. Tillson is well remembered by Mayor Richardson, Captain Frank W. Cunningham and many other residents of the city who were raised on Church Hill. He was a respected business man of standing whose fortunes were partly wrecked by the war, and who shortly afterwards moved to Baltimore.

The child is described as a regular gypsy princess, with fair skin and big black eyes. In her veins mingle the wild blood of many generations of roving life and the oldest English stock of Virginia and Maryland. Mr. Tillson's granddaughter, Jesse Key Habersham, also granddaughter of Francis Scott Key, author of "The Star Spangled Banner," was for years a prominent society belle of Baltimore, and not a little sensation was created when she ran away with and married the gypsy king, Georges Michele. During the past few days King Gorgas brought back to Baltimore his only child, in order that she may be raised in the best environment and schools.

The child's mother died a week ago in Cincinnati, after years of roving life, sleeping in gypsy wagons and moving constantly from place to place. King Gorgas himself took the child to Baltimore, and has given his written consent to the child's education, which he cared for by Miss Alice Carnell Tillson, who formerly made her home in Richmond.

DUSTLESS ROAD TO WASHINGTON

R. F. & P. Stockholders Get Gratifying Report at Annual Meeting.

WASHED GRAVEL NOW USED

Telephone System of Operating Trains Proves Highly Satisfactory.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad Company, held yesterday morning, reports from the various officers showed that the fiscal year ended June 30 had been most prosperous. Besides improvements, the company declared the usual dividend of 3 per cent., and reduced the ratio of expenses to earnings from 64 per cent. to 61 per cent.

There were present at the meeting in person and by proxy 15,000 out of a total of 18,173 shares of stock. The Commonwealth of Virginia was represented by its recently appointed Board of Proxies—R. B. O'Neil, John R. Purcell, James Mann, E. D. Cole, W. E. Carson and E. V. Barley. PULLING FAILED TO GIVE EVIDENCE

Former Nurse Did Not Appear to Tell of Alleged Ink Injection.

Though duly notified of the meeting, Thomas J. Pulling, who charges that while he was employed as a nurse in the City Home ink instead of a compound solution of chloral was hypodermically administered to a patient, which caused his death, did not appear before the Committee on Relief of the Poor last night. Now he will have to comply and state his case before the committee, which will look into the case fully at a meeting to be called later for that purpose. Circumstances surrounding Pulling's charge have led the committee to believe that there is no foundation for it.

Lasas confident, said Chairman Hanson in stating Pulling's complaint, "that every word he said was untrue as I am of the fact that I am sitting in this chair. He has demanded a hearing before this committee and he is going to get it if we can get him in Richmond. It is due the management of the City Home as much as to him."

Other members of the committee were of the same opinion. There are other phases of the management before the investigators. One of these is a thorough inquiry into the question as to whether or not, through laxity of the present rules, there are inmates of the institution living at the expense of the city who really are unable to take care of themselves. In the Pulling case, all the witnesses for the defense were at the call of the committee last night. Most important of these is Pharmacist William H. Snook, whose casual remark that the discolored compound used for the injection "looked like ink" probably is the basis of the alleged crime Pulling will disclose.

It is known that Pulling has formerly been adjudged insane, and that he spent a term in an insane asylum. The general impression is that he still suffers from mental disorders, and that his accusations are for the purpose of avenging the fancied injustice done him by discharging him from the position of nurse. With the determination of these is Pharmacist William H. Snook, whose casual remark that the discolored compound used for the injection "looked like ink" probably is the basis of the alleged crime Pulling will disclose.

To Talk on Tuberculosis. A meeting of the Richmond Academy of Medicine and Surgery will be held at the T. P. A. building to-night at 8:30 o'clock. U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals. The United States Circuit Court of Appeals resumed yesterday morning at 11 o'clock, with Circuit Judges Coffey and Pritchard and District Judges McDowell and Ross in attendance. There were no cases in the call, but the court held a conference session on cases heretofore argued and submitted. Cases in call to-day: No. 979—J. M. Bailey, United States marshal, appellant, vs. Richard J. Woolley and Cration Whitaker, appellees; an appeal from the Circuit Court at Asheville, N. C. To be argued by Bourne Parker and Morrison, for the appellant, and Andrew E. Moore, P. H. Price and J. C. Watkins, trustees of Pomona Cotton Manufacturing Company, bankrupt, appellees; on appeal from the District Court at Asheville, N. C. To be argued by Joseph A. McCullough, of Greenville, S. C., for the appellant, and by Thomas J. Shaw and Steadman and Cooke, of Greensboro, N. C., for the appellees.
